

ADRIANOPLE STILL RESISTS INVADERS

TURKS HOLD COVETED CITY BUT BULGARIANS AND SERVANS PRESS CONFLICT.

FIGHTING IS SEVERE

Thousand Turks Captured When Sortie is Made by the Garrison This Afternoon.

London, Feb. 4.—The bombardment of Adrianople which opened on Monday proceeded without interruption today. A report that the Bulgarians had decided to suspend operations for twenty-four hours so as to give the Turkish garrison an opportunity to surrender, appears to be without foundation as are many of the stories spread abroad in the beleaguered fortress. A message from Belgrade, Serbia, today speaks of the heroic conduct of a couple of Serbian regiments which participated in an attack on the outer circle of forts. There is no means of verifying this or any other reports, as such fighting as may be in progress is taking place behind closed doors so far as the outside world is concerned. Dependence has to be placed on the more or less biased stories given out by the respective army headquarters. Only on extremely rare occasions can a newspaper correspondent succeed in circumventing the strict censorship.

Turkish Report.

Constantinople, Feb. 4.—The forty-eight hour bombardment of Adrianople by the Bulgarians and Servians has thus far resulted in only eight deaths within the city according to the war office's official statement. Fifty private houses have been set on fire.

Shukri Pasha, commander-in-chief of Adrianople, reported by wireless telegraph to the war office here today: "The enemy is bombarding us. One hundred and thirty common shells and eleven shrapnel have fallen in the city, killing eight people and wounding ten. A number of houses are in flames. The bombardment continues."

Sharp Fighting.

London, Feb. 5.—During a sortie by the Turkish troops from Adrianople today, 1,000 of them were taken prisoners by the Bulgarians, according to a dispatch from Sofia.

A sharp engagement began late today on the Tchatalja lines, according to a dispatch from Constantinople.

Refuses Request.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The Bulgarian government has refused to grant the appeal made by the German embassy to the request to Bulgaria for permission for a German red cross expedition to enter Adrianople to attend the Turkish sick and wounded.

Chance to Capitulate.

London, Feb. 5.—The bombardment of Adrianople ceased temporarily at eleven o'clock last night with the Bulgarians and Servians besieging the Turkish garrison for twenty-four hours in which to capitulate, according to a news agency dispatch from Sofia early today. If no advantage is taken of the offer, operations will be resumed. One of the army divisions has advanced to a position about a mile nearer the fortress than was occupied before the armistice.

Contemplates Action.

Constantinople, Feb. 5.—M. Ahmed Sherket, the Turkish minister of war, left for the front at noon today. His departure is taken to indicate that some forward action is contemplated by the army at Tchatalja.

Continue Bombardment.

Sofia, Feb. 5.—The bombardment of Adrianople continued today on all sides of the city. Heavy guns brought up by the Serbian troops were turned on the principal work of the fortress. The Bulgarian army headquarters reported that yesterday passed without and fighting.

BILLS INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURE

Many Measures Are Contemplated That Will Mean Radical Revision of the Laws.

Madison, Feb. 5.—Two joint resolutions came into the assembly today. One provides for limiting legislative sessions to ninety calendar days with provisions for ten extra days by vote of the two houses. Special sessions shall not run over twenty-five days.

Assemblyman Axel Johnson introduced a joint resolution asking congress to adopt a resolution introduced by Senator La Follette providing for an amendment to the federal constitution which provides that the constitution may be amended by popular vote of a majority of the states.

Among the bills introduced in the assembly were:

Requiring a party declaration for a candidate to get his name on the official ballot.

Prohibiting barring of registered nurses from hospitals when desired by patients.

Prohibiting free lunches except crackers in any saloon in cities of the fourth class.

Permitting spring shooting of ducks from April 1 to 15.

Prohibiting work in bakeries on Sunday.

VICE RESORT KEEPS MAN FROM LABORS

Afraid to Leave His Family Alone at Night in the Neighborhood.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 5.—In an award under the workmen's compensation act recently issued by the industrial commission, a saw mill employee of Eau Claire who lost his right arm while at work, is granted weekly compensation and is encouraged in the commission's memorandum to fight his misfortune and seek to make good despite his injury. The case is that of August Hauptmann, employed by the New Dells Lumber Company, Eau Claire. A peculiar feature of the case has to do with the alleged existence of a vice district in Eau Claire. The industrial commission, in commenting upon the relation of this alleged district to one phase of the case, called attention to the duties of county and city officers by saying that "it ought not to be necessary to do more than call the attention of the district attorney and sheriff to the conditions complained of, to have the nuisance abated."

Hauptmann, who is 21 years old and who has a wife and three children, lost his right arm Sept. 25 when earning $1.75 a day. "There is no denial of liability," says the commission, "and hence the commission is authorized to issue a temporary order. The respondent has offered employment to applicant as night watchman, time-keeper and operator of a machine known as a sticker, which work the commission is satisfied that applicant is capable of performing. At least, he cannot deny his ability to perform this labor until he has in good faith tried the work."

In encouraging Hauptmann to knuckle down to his duty as a citizen despite his misfortune, the commission calls his attention to cases on record of men who succeeded despite worse misfortune. It cites the recent case of a lumberjack who persisted despite the loss of his right arm and finally became a foreman at $3,000 a year. Hauptmann refused the job as night watchman because, he said, he dared not leave his family alone at night for the reason that a house of ill-fame next door attracted despicable and dangerous characters to the neighborhood. In answer to this the commission points out his relief through the county authorities.

JAPANESE MINISTER CENSURED BY DIET

Prince Para Katsura Orders Sessions of Chamber Suspended and Will Probably Call-New Election.

Tokio, Japan, Feb. 5.—The Japanese Diet today passed a vote of censure on the government under the premiership of Prince Para Katsura, who only recently took office as prime minister and minister of foreign affairs. The sessions of the chamber were then suspended for a period of five days. It is expected that the Prince will immediately dissolve the Diet and call a general election, meanwhile retaining office. The order suspending the session was issued by the Emperor himself.

Most exciting scenes were witnessed during the dispersal of the Japanese Diet after a vote of censure on the government under Prince Katsura had been carried. The exits from the chamber were thronged with people who cheered the members of the constitutional party when they assaulted Saburo Shimada and other so-called renegades of the national liberty party. They were thrown out of their rikshas when they attempted to drive away, but efforts to duck them in the canal were frustrated by the police.

POLICE MYSTIFIED AS STATION THEFT

Robbery of Des Plaines Station of Municipal Court Records is Puzzler For Chicago Detectives.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—When Alex Davison, chief investigator of the Chicago Law and Order League testified last Friday to theft of files from the trying hall police station, he told Chief of Police McWeeney, who was present that it was very easy to rob a police station and to prove it he promised to rob four other stations.

Despite this warning the Des Plaines street station one of the largest in the city and one of the most numerously manned was robbed last night. When the robbery was called to the attention of Davison today he laughingly evaded answer and gave an outline of his moments during the night calculated to baffle Chief McWeeney.

Entrance was gained into Municipal Judge John A. Mahoney's court in the Des Plaines street station after court adjourned yesterday and files of the court were taken in spite of the fact that adjoining rooms had to be passed through in which detectives were stationed, by the person who took away the files.

NO ALIENS ON CREWS OF ARGENTINE WARSHIPS

New York, Feb. 5.—Adventurers anxious to see new country and serve under new flags have been disappointed by the announcement that the approaching completion in this country of two battleships for the Argentine navy would offer no opportunities for enlistment. Dr. Abelardo Arana, Argentine Council General, said today that he had received many applications from seamen who wished to help man the new warship, but that his government intended to enlist crews composed of Argentine citizens entirely.

HEATED ARGUMENTS ARE MADE ON BILL TO DESTROY FRATS

University Secret Societies Defend Their Interests With Brilliant Counsel Before Committee.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 5.—For over two hours yesterday afternoon members and foes of secret societies in the University of Wisconsin debated before the committee on education the question of the right of such organizations to exist. The fraternity contingent invited the committee to visit the chapter houses to see for themselves how the societies are managed.

Assemblyman Douglas Anderson of Rhinelander led the fight against the fraternities, and was supported by David Sappos of Milwaukee. For the fraternities appeared Burr W. Jones and Ralph W. Jackson, Madison lawyers, Chester C. Wells, Alvin H. Kessler and Elvin C. Reis of the Daily Cardinal staff, and others. The debate drifted into a controversy over the comparative degrees of democracy exempting the police of the rival student newspapers, the Daily Cardinal and Daily News. Charges of the anti-fraternity men that the News was an outgrowth of a pro-fraternity sentiment dominating the Cardinal, met with the reply that many editorial positions on the News are held by fraternity people.

Fraternities Demoralizing. Assemblyman Anderson contended the societies make the social life of the student body undemocratic, that they are demoralizing; that fond parents send their children to Wisconsin for the fraternity affiliations, that they may enjoy the "prestige and glory" otherwise to be gained at eastern schools, that the faculty itself pampered with fraternity influence that fraternities tend towards snobbishness, and that, using the same report as authority, figures proved a lower scholastic standard is held by fraternity men.

Mr. Wells said that 600 are housed and 800 members held in chapter houses, that they fill an economic and social necessity in the life of their members, that they are no more undemocratic than the Masons, Elks and Woodmen, that certain high standard of scholarship and morals are required, with stringent rules enforced to maintain such standards; that freshmen are forbidden to frequent saloons; that liquor is not allowed in the chapter houses; that no unchaperoned women are permitted to stay at fraternity houses; that university dances are under the ban for members; that underclassmen are not allowed to go out on evenings except Wednesday, Friday and Saturday; that they are given assistance in studies by fraternity brothers and encouraged to attain high grades; that fraternity members are on the same plane with non-members in the class and other elections; that the class and other elections in the absence of common or dormitories, and that the real need is for more fraternity houses than less. That all students do not join societies he argued, was because the proper initiative to form them was lacking.

Jones in Defense.

Attorney Jones defended the societies as proper social and economic necessities, and said that it was for the legislature to attempt to deal with delicate questions involving social amenities such as this bill involved. Recognizing that fraternities have their ills, he would not seek to destroy them bodily, no more than he would recommend this course for football which also has defects. He maintained that property values would depreciate if the societies were abolished, and that the chapters help to bear the burdens of the taxpayers who support the university. Young people will seek their own companions, he declared, and no statute can make 5,000 students live on the same level.

Attorney Jackson took the ground that a law to abolish secret societies could be unconstitutional, and that it would hold no more than would a law to destroy other orders, such as the Masons and Woodmen. He claimed that the bill would also wipe out the debating societies at the university, which also have a secret character. The committee room was crowded during the debate, which at times took an acrimonious turn.

BEACH TRIAL DRAWS A FULL COURT ROOM

Case of Assault Against South Carolina Man Brings Out Large Audience.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Aiken, S. C., Feb. 5.—The trial of assault against Frederick O. Beach was resumed today. The court room was crowded when the trial was resumed at 9:50 o'clock. Beach and his wife arrived early, accompanied by Mrs. Taylor and Miss Hollins. Mrs. Beach was again attired in brown and seemed to be suffering from a slight cold. Sheriff H. H. Howard, who was chief of police of Aiken at the time of the assault, was recalled by Prosecutor Custer to identify some footprints discovered outside the yard of the Beach cottage. Howard said that Rural Policeman Holly had told him the footprints were his.

Mrs. light was thrown on the medical employed to investigate the assault upon Mrs. Frederick O. Beach of New York during examination of the prosecution's witnesses at today's session. Mayor Herbert E. Giles of Aiken occupied the witness chair during the greater part of the session. He told of numerous conferences with the Beaches within a few days after the assault. He said Mrs. Beach was still in bed suffering from the effects of the wound in her throat, but that she answered questions freely and made sane suggestions. The witness admitted that Beach gave him every assistance and proposed the employment of a negro detective to assist the white detectives engaged on the case, sending him a check for the purpose. The mayor said the money never was used. On the night of the assault, Beach told Rural Policeman Holly, according to the testimony of the latter today, that Mrs. Beach had lost a pair of valuable earrings valued at $4,000 or $5,000. Subsequently the earrings were found in the side yard and turned over to the mayor, who declared that in his opinion they were Beach's.

Beach's diamond-studded pen-knife was an object of much interest and closely scrutinized by the jury when it was offered in evidence.

The hotel and several other buildings were on fire at different times, but were saved through the heroic efforts of a bucket brigade made up of the entire population. SYLVIA PANKHURST GETS A JAIL TERM

Leader of London Suffrage Forces Sentenced With Nineteen Other Women.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Feb. 4.—Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader was sentenced to two weeks' imprisonment of a fine of $10 by the magistrate sitting at Bow street police court today. The same punishment was meted out to nineteen other women who participated in the raid on the house of commons under the leadership of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond on January 28th.

On that occasion the women tried to force their way into parliament to obtain an interview with David Lloyd George. They were arrested and charged with resisting the police. As Miss Pankhurst was leaving the police court for the cells today she shouted, "I shall not serve this sentence."

This is probably correct as leaders of the militants have become tired of jail and their fines are now invariably paid by some third party within a few hours of their imposition.

WILL NOT RECOGNIZE AUTHORITY OF SENATE

McGOVERN REFUSES TO APPEAR BEFORE THEM TO ANSWER TO QUESTIONS IN EKERN MATTER.

LEADS TO A TALK-FEST

Result is Still in Doubt But Apparent-ly Governor is Standing Within His Rights in Matter.

Madison, Feb. 5.—Governor McGovern has refused to comply with the senate's request that he appear before that body this morning and testify in the Ekeren case. In a lengthy, executive communication the governor denied the right of the senate to demand his appearance and its power to interfere with the executive branch of the government.

During the regular senate session McGovern sent in his communication denying the senate's power to question his discretion in issuing the removal order against Ekeren, and quoted decision to uphold him.

He took the ground that the executive branch of the government may not be interfered with by the legislature and declared that he would refuse to take part in the proposed trial or hearing.

No review of executive action in removing Ekeren can properly be had by that body he claimed, and the only proper procedure was through the courts, hence he deemed it improper for him to participate.

Senator Randolph moved that the hour of ten-thirty having arrived the senate proceed to resolve itself into a committee of the whole. Senator Brown objected the calendar not being finished. Senator Burke objected to the senate's proceeding as "out of order, and as tending to interfere with a power it did not possess."

Senator Brown started to cite his reasons for opposing going into a committee of the whole and was interrupted by Randolph who declared he was out of order. Senator Martin held that the senate having passed a resolution it shall be the duty of the presiding officer to see that the senate is in a committee of the whole and appoint a chairman of the committee.

Senator Zophy observed there was an apparent effort to dictate that the senate shall "not do what it wants to do." Brown called for the ayes and noes on his motion that the senate go into a committee of the whole and it prevailed twenty-three to six.

Senator Bosshard nominated Senator Scott as chairman of the committee of the whole and Scott took the chair.

Brown asked for reconsideration of the senate's action to go into a committee of the whole and to postpone consideration for one month. Senator Scott ruled it out of order. Brown appealed from the decision of the chair which was sustained by a vote of 23 to 4.

At this stage Herman L. Ekeren and his attorneys took seats in the senate chamber. Senator Burke rose to protest against further proceedings under the resolution. Senator Randolph made the point that Senator Burke was out of order. Chief Clerk Wylie proceeded to read the records in the case.

The limited debate permitted incident to the motions made showed feelings. Senator Browne referred to the proceedings as being similar to a police court. Senator Burke made a plea for a dignified proceeding.

Senator Culbertson made a motion to limit the inquiry to the reasons in brief for Ekeren's removal.

Senator Bosshard objected to the narrow limits sought to be imposed and said that the original resolution should suffice. That the senate was proceeding along absurd lines.

"The case," he claimed, "was to ascertain the title to the office of insurance commissioner and this question was for the courts to determine."

"Suppose," Senator Browne said, "the senate should confirm Anderson's appointment and then the court find that Ekeren was rightfully in office."

The committee rose and the senate took a recess until two o'clock.

OLIVE Tablets

OIL the Bowels

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-colored tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take but unfailing in results.

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of jocular buoyancy and clear thought take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation. 10 and 25 cents per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

Automobile Owners, Garage Men and Chauffeurs Register With New Night School Class.

A class of twenty-five in the study of gasoline engines enrolled at the industrial school last evening. Prof. Elliott of the department of engineering of the university, has the work in charge and will meet with the class every Tuesday evening for the next nine weeks.

Last evening the lesson included instruction in the four-stroke cycle engine will be considered. One evening will be given up to a consideration of the system of ignition, including the make-and-break system and the jump spark system. A regular engine will be brought in for demonstration purposes and testing of gasoline and other particular phases of gasoline engines will be considered. The class is using the university blue prints and outlines.

A number of the young men of the garages, automobile owners and the chauffeurs are attending the class. It is open to all who care to know something about the methods of operating the gasoline engine and the principles involved.

Mr. Coplan will return on Thursday to take charge of his industrial classes in both the day school and the evening school. The class in mechanical drawing will meet on Thursday night.

FRATERNITY FUNDS

TAKEN BY THIEVES

Fifteen Dollars Belonging to Fraternal Reserve Association Stolen From King-Cowles Store.

Fifteen dollars belonging to the Fraternal Reserve association, and a dollar or more in small change belonging to the King-Cowles store were stolen from a cash drawer in that place in the earlier hours of Sunday morning. C. F. Barker, secretary of the association, had deposited the money in the drawer late the previous evening and he was the first to discover the theft which was reported to the police about three o'clock Sunday afternoon. Patrolman Patrick Fleming made an examination of the premises and he found that the thief had entered the store by prying up a rear window. As it is necessary to reach this by crawling in between the walls of two buildings, the narrow passage of which is obscured by a huge ash-pile, it is believed that the robbery was done by someone familiar with the premises. No shoes were taken and there was nothing to show that the safe had been tampered with.

A great deal of damage was done, ruining the ceilings, side walls and the floors.

LINK AND PIN

QUESTIONS OF STRIKE IS STILL UNSETTLED AS YET

In spite of their reiterated offers to proceed at once to arbitrate through a tribunal representing the general public the demands of the firemen on the 54 Eastern Railroads, the railroad managers have as yet heard nothing whatever from the men.

The managers understand that the count of the ballots in the strike vote is proceeding and published from the men's committee indicate, what the railroads have conceded from the first an overwhelming majority favoring a strike if called by the leaders.

Nor have the leaders given any intimation as to when they may call the men out.

Chief among the propositions which the men have voted on, and which the railroads already have offered to arbitrate, is a demand that there shall be two full-paid firemen on about 2900 out of the 14,000 freight locomotives in the territory affected.

The demand specifically is that there shall be two firemen on all engines of more than 200,000 pounds weight on the drivers.

As President Carter put the matter to the Managers Committee at their Conference on December 20:—

"We are not asking for the second fireman primarily for the sake of safety, for the benefit of the Company; we are asking it primarily because we know that the firemen must have some relief."

The railroads concede the point that there are cases deserving relief. On the Pennsylvania Railroad, for instance, where under the Pennsylvania State Extra-Crew Law an additional brakeman is employed, he is required to assist the fireman in shoveling coal on a hard run.

On other roads in some cases two firemen are employed for a full run. The railroads take three general positions on the proposition as a whole:

1. No Company should require any man to undergo excessive physical strain.

2. While the expense of any proposition is a serious matter, where assistance for firemen is necessary, and it often is, the question of cost is of minor consideration.

3. No rule can be laid down governing the subject upon an arbitrary basis. Each case must be decided up on its merits.

The railroads propose to the men to refer each case back to the local officers and men to settle; where it cannot be settled satisfactorily, to appoint a permanent committee of appeal for all the 54 railroads which shall have power to inquire into the case and settle it fairly.

An arbitrary rule would unduly burden the railroads and would result in unfairness as between the men. It would cause the companies to employ a large number of unnecessary firemen.

But even this proposition the companies are prepared to leave to the judgment of a committee of citizens sufficiently large and representative, to consider and settle fairly the subject on behalf of the public, the railroads and the employees.

VIOLATING GAME LAWS

TO FEED LUMBER JACKS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Duluth, Minn., Feb. 5.—Lumber camps in the northern part of the state have been living high on venison and moose, feeding the forbidden moose to laborers as part of the regular menus according to game wardens who arrived here today. One of the camps operated by George Bartlett and W. H. Vaughn, who yesterday pleaded guilty to having moose in their possession, paid $100, and admitted having 600 pounds of moose on hand. Game warden, Archie Boyd, this morning declared that illegal shooting and potting of moose and deer is on the increase.

AMERICAN BOWLING CONGRESS

TOURNAMENT ENTRIES CLOSED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Toledo, O., Feb. 5.—Entries closed today for the annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress, which is to be held in this city on February 22 to March 12. When the entries are finally tabulated it is believed they will be shown to exceed the figures at the Chicago tournament last year, in which nearly 600 five-man teams, 1400 two-man teams and nearly 3,000 individual bowlers participated. Preparations for the tournament here are well advanced. Within a week or ten days the directors expect to have completed the work of installing the alleys in the big Terminal building where the tournament will be held.

Manager P. L. Myers today closed the contract for the appearance of the original production of "The Girl at the Gate," for February 20th. Charles McClintock, representing Harry M. Askin, owner of the production, is authority for the statement that this is the first time that an entire La Salle theatre production, including the famous chorus, has ever gone on the road. This is due at this time owing to the fact that the La Salle theatre will be closed for a short period during alterations which will make it one of the model playhouses of the west. ## How To

Take Peruna

In Case of An Attack of Cold.

If you want to dispose of a cold at once, so as to leave no vestige of it, Peruna should be taken as follows:

If the cold attacks you in the latter part of the day, take a hot bath and go to bed early. Peruna should be taken in teaspoonful doses every half hour, both before and after the bath.

S. B. HARTMAN, M.D., after the bath, Columbus, Ohio. This will undoubtedly procure a good night's sleep and the cold will be gone in the morning.

If you should get up with a cold in the morning, the best way is to stay in all day. If the cold is right bad better remain in bed. Take a teaspoonful of Peruna every hour during the day. Keep it right up. Let nothing interfere with the medicine. Eat very little. What little you do eat should be fluid. Hot soup. Broth. Malted milk. Kaffir or buttermilk. The Peruna should be continued all day, and at night a hot bath taken. Go to bed early. The next morning your cold will be gone.

In view of the fact that a cold is the beginning of a great many serious bodily ailments, no one should fail to heed the above advice. It would have been worth millions to some men to have known it. It is of priceless value to any man or woman.

To in a cold in the head, cure it in a way that it leaves no trace, is a thing very much to be desired in this country. This would absolutely prevent chronic catarrh in all forms. No one would have catarrh of the nose, throat or lungs, or be troubled with catarrh of the stomach or kidneys, if they had treated themselves in this manner.

After catarrh has become thoroughly established or settled in the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or lungs, it is better to take the Peruna according to the directions on the bottle.

After taking a bottle or two, such people should write to The Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio, No. 56.

Friday evening. The proceeds are for the benefit of the public library and everyone in Clinton should purchase a ticket, whether they are able to attend the show or not.

SO-CALLED BOMB THROWER

DENIES ALL THE REPORTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Feb. 5.—This afternoon John Paul Berrell, the confessed bomb thrower, made to an assistant district attorney a sweeping denial of all the statements credited to him yesterday.

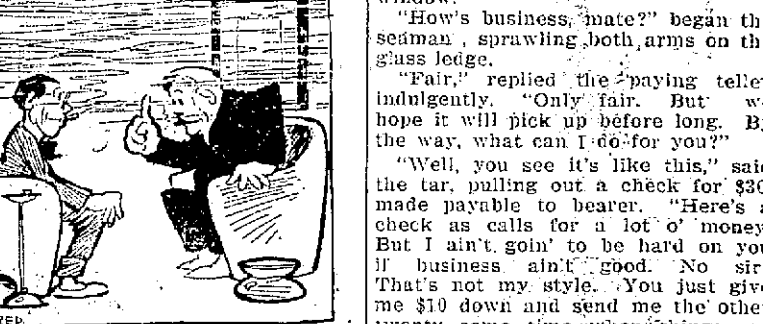

It is a fitting custom, that of giving baby a silver spoon, illustrating in some way the year you wish to remember. We sell a great many for that purpose, as well as for remembrances to friends at home. We charge nothing for engraving the date.

OLIN & OLSON, Jewelers

In the smoking car the conversation turned to the merits and demerits of various ways of preserving health. One stout, florid man, held forth with great eloquence on the subject. "Look at me!" he said. "Never a day's sickness in my life, and all due to simple food! Why gentlemen, I continued, 'from the age of twenty to that of forty I lived an absolutely simple, regular, life—no effeminate delicacies, no late hours, no extrava-sances. Every day, in fact, summer and winter, I was in bed regularly at 9 o'clock and up again at 5 in the morning. I worked from 8 to 1, then had dinner—a plain dinner, mark my words; after that an hour's exercise; then—"Excuse me, sir," interrupted the facetious stranger in the corner, "but what were you in for?"

A prominent French critic, the story runs, once said to George Bernard Shaw: "You are putting on a new comedy Monday night. Let me attend one of the dress rehearsals, won't you?" "Impossible," said Mr. Shaw. "My dress rehearsals are always private. I have to refuse even the most distinguished critics access to them." "But," said the other, "I want to write a careful criticism. If I have to write it and telegraph it in a few minutes on Monday night it will be very hurriedly done, and I fear that it will give a wrong impression of your comedy in Paris the next day. 'Have no anxiety on that score,' Mr. Shaw replied. 'My comedies are not written for the next day.'

A temperance lecturer was enthusiastically denouncing the use of all intoxicants.

"I wish all the beer, all the wine and all the whiskey in the world was at the bottom of the ocean," he said. Hastily Pat rose to his feet.

"Sure, and so do I, sir," he shouted. "I wish every bit of it was at the bottom of the sea."

As they were leaving the hall, the lecturer encountered Pat.

"I certainly am proud of you," he said.

"We will get a divorce,"

"So be it," he said coldly, through his waxed mustache.

But suddenly, though her voice rose, she sank to her knees.

"The child! The child!" she cried. "The child is mine."

He laughed cruelly.

"Nevah!" he retorted. "Didn't you yourself insist on naming him after me?"

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCarty

At last a sure cure for being cross-eyed has been discovered. Knockout Brown takes the credit for making the discovery. "When I started fighting in 1908," remarked Brown the other day, "I was so cross-eyed that people laughed whenever they looked at me. Why, I looked in one direction so I could walk in another; and if I wanted to read page 2 of a newspaper I aimed at page 3. Now I am pretty nearly normal—at least my eyes are, for you have to examine closely to see that they are the least bit crossed. I think that constant work with the gloves is what is curing me; you see, watching the other fellow's gloves has gradually restored my eyes to what ought to be their regular positions."

Something has got to be done to Jack Johnson before the whole world will recognize Luther McCarty as the world's heavyweight champion. Either Luther must put Jack down and out, or someone else whom McCarty can lick must turn the trick. McCarty has speed, fistic science and a punch. It is doubtful, however, if he's quite in the same class with Johnson just at this time. McCarty insists that he won't fight a black man for the championship, and not many blame him for feeling that way. But fight experts seem agreed that Johnson deserves to be considered the champion until he has been whipped.

Manager Joe Birmingham of the Cleveland Naps says he's heartily in favor of the change in baseball rules lately proposed by Manager Evers of Chicago. Evers' proposition is to permit baserunners to advance in case of an intentional pass to a batsman. "I believe the day will come when the matter will be taken up seriously and incorporated in the rules, and I like-wise think, when that time comes, those who follow the game closely will wonder why the change was not made years before," says Birmingham.

BASEBALL NOTES.
George Bell, the former Brooklyn twirler, has signed with the Newark team, of the International League.
Of the eleven recruits who will go on the Spring training trip with the Giants nine of the youngsters are pitchers.

In signing Catcher Gonzalez it is said that the Boston Braves have copied the greatest ball player in Cuba. Manager Joe Tinker, of the Cincinnati Reds, is back on the stage for a few weeks doing a vaudeville turn.

Pitcher Dubuc and Catcher Rondeau, of the Detroit Tigers, will compose the first genuine French battery ever formed in the major leagues.

The St. Louis Browns believe they have a star in pitcher Carl Wehman on account of his great showing during the closing weeks of last season. Shortstop Mike Doolan, of the Phillies, has asked permission to cut the Spring training trip in order to complete his studies at the dental school.

Captain Heine Wagner, of the world's champions, thinks that if the Red Sox head the Athletics it will be another pennant for Boston next fall. The Austin franchise in the Texas League has been purchased by George Leidy, who has had several years experience as a manager in the Texas organization.

The Providence Club has purchased Pitcher Jensen from Detroit. He pitched for New Haven last season and was one of the stars of the Connecticut League.

Manager Chance, of the New Yorks, will have the tallest pitching staff in captivity next season. McConnell, Green, Keating, and Schultz are above the six-foot mark.

President Chivington, of the American Association, is out with a dental that any club has been given the right to invade A. A. territory. It was recently reported that the Northern League would place team in Minneapolis and St. Paul. The Wisconsin-Illinois League would add Milwaukee to its circuit, and Central League teams would play in Indianapolis and Columbus.

WITH THE BOXERS.
Jack Dillon and George Brown, the Chicago middleweight, have signed to box in Indianapolis, Feb. 12.

It is said that Luther McCarty collected $14,985 from three fights with Al Kaufman, Jim Flynn and Al Falzer.

Ex-Champion Tommy Burns is doing light training and declares that he will re-enter the boxing game in the near future.

Losing two decisions, to Spike Kelly and Tommy Howell, within ten days has caused the stock of Ray Branson to drop several points.

"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien is trying to sign Eddie McGoorty and Jack McCarren for a clash to take place in made years before," says Birmingham.

Ty Cobb, who was always noted for his ambition, is anxious to lead the American league in hitting a greater number of lines than any other living ball player. He is taking great care of himself this winter, spending the greater part of his time out of doors, hunting, fishing and playing golf. Cobb has been in the big league eight years and for five of them has pushed himself to the premier batting position.

A dispatch from Waco, Texas, says the waters in which the St. Louis Browns will bathe during their training season there contain silica, sodium chloride, aluminum, iron sesquioxide, calcium carbonate, magnesia, carbonate and sodium carbonate, and bicarbonate. If someone would add a little pepper the Browns might manage to get better than seventh place in 1913.

Since Fred Clarke retired and Old Cy Young's arm went back on him, the title of dean of them all for continuous major league service belongs to Bobby Wallace of the St. Louis Browns. Wallace began with Cleveland as a pitcher in 1895. He stayed there until 1899, joining the Browns in the latter year. In 1910 he had the misfortune to be made manager of the Browns—one of the weakest clubs in the majors. His inability to jogg the Browns out of their lowly position led to his downfall as manager early last year. He is still with the Browns, however, and will soon be going south with the team on the spring training trip.

Frank Whitney, the Cedar Rapids lightweight, who is a top-notch fighter, is looking for a match with Jack Britton. He is a fairly clever boxer, and can hit hard with both hands. He offers to meet Britton at 133 pounds.

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.

TO MEET MILWAUKEE ROLLER POLO TEAM

Janesville Polo Players Expect to Make Good Showing in Their Third Game Friday Night.

The Janesville Moose polo team will clash with the Milwaukee team Friday night at the local rink. The local men are confident of a victory as Racine has badly defeated this team in spite of the enormous amount of material that the Cream City team has to pick from. The Milwaukee team is second in the league and has been playing a fast game and will make the locals work their hardest to keep the score in their lead. The Janesville players have struck their stride and they will be leaders of the league within a short time. Janesville's percentage is five hundred and the question of the game that was to have been played with Rockford has not been fully settled as yet. The locals claim a victory as they were willing to play the Rockford team but the latter was not organized at that time. The Janesville polo fans are beginning to realize that the local team has the making of a league winning team and as the sport has proven very exciting and has been well attended. The lineup that will face the Milwaukee team will be: Blakely, first rush; Kilmer, capt., second rush; Shaffer, center; Conley, half back; Langdon, goal tender.

BONSPIEL OF MANITOBA CURLERS AT WINNIPEG

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 5.—The twenty-fifth annual bonspiel under the auspices of the Manitoba Curling Association, which was opened here this morning, promises to be the most interesting event of the kind western Canada has seen in years, if ever equalled before. Clubs are present from places never before represented, and even eastern Canada will have her men on the ice. From British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan and from points in Minnesota, Wisconsin and northern Michigan the delegations are large and representative. The tournament will continue one week. The program was ushered in this morning with the beginning of play for the Dingwall cup, one of the principal trophies to be awarded.

Daily Thought.
Discontent is want of self-reliance; it is infirmity of will.—Emerson.

The Theatre

Miss Mabel Callahan will replace Miss Ivy Troutman in the title character of "The Girl at the Gate" when the La Salle musical comedy is sent abroad. No other change will be made in the cast for the tour, which will last well into the summer in order that the new Canadian route west from Winnipeg to Vancouver may be covered at a time of year when the weather there is normal for playing—Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Myers has secured one of the first engagements with the La Salle company.
"PAID IN FULL."
Among the many distinctive features of Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full" that makes it the exceptional play of the time is the character of the hero who is anything but heroic. That is, to say, the leading man, who is usually the hero in a play, is really the villain in "Paid in Full." Heroism is not lacking in "Paid in Full." Men and musical comedy has had its origin.

SCENE FROM "PAID IN FULL" AT MYERS THEATRE, SUNDAY, FEB. 9, MATINEE AND EVENING.

women possess the quality, but there is not a spark of it in the leading man. He is Joe Brooks, an $18 a week clerk, who, in resentment at not being advanced in business, steals from his employer. When he is found out he tries to shift the blame on his young wife and to sacrifice her to gain immunity from punishment. There have many plays in which the leading man has shown a bad streak at one time or another, though in the end he has redeemed himself by proving of the right sort. Not so Joe Brooks. He carries viciousness and cowardliness to the very finish, unrelieved by one glimpse of heroism, unless it be when face to face with his employer, Capt. William, he openly and strongly expresses his opinion of him and of his methods.

Certain analysts, though, have seen a vein of generosity in Brooks. No character in contemporary drama has been so widely discussed as this one. He is of a type common to every American city, and it is to Mr. Walter's credit as a playwright that he has pictured this character with a fidelity that has caused many essays to be written on conditions that produce Joe Brooks. In fact, "Paid in Full" has attracted a greater degree of attention from those who view the stage as a vital factor in modern life and recognize its value as an instruction than any play that has attempted to portray existing conditions. That it has served a great end and attained unprecedented popularity in the process is convincingly demonstrated by its career.

More persons have seen "Paid in Full" more companies have played it than any other piece in theatrical history. O. S. Priorese is maintaining this season the five companies that played "Paid in Full" all last season, each of which has to its credit a New York engagement, and one of which will be at the Myers Theatre on Sunday, Feb. 9, matinee and evening.

LUCY WESTON DANCING IN "THE GIRL AT THE GATE."

For the first time in five years since she has been in the United States Miss Lucy Weston is dancing in "The Girl at the Gate," which comes here soon, direct from the La Salle Opera House, Chicago. She has taken part in the following musical comedies and extravaganzas since coming here in 1907: "The Follies of 1907," the first of the Ziegfeld annual series, in which she took the place of Emma Carus, when that entertainment was brought to Chicago in November of that year; "The Politics of 1908," in which she originated the part of Eve; "The Candy Shop," in which she replaced Louise Dresser for the Chicago run, in the summer of 1909, at the Shubert Theatre, and "The Jolly Bachelor," in which she replaced Nora Bayes, appearing with the piece in January, 1911, at the Lyric, Chicago. Miss Weston danced in none of these nor did she rehearse any dancing for "The Quaker Girl," in which she was to have played the title role. She withdrew in the third week of rehearsals, making way for Ina Claire, and returned to the variety theatres, where, also, her ability as a dancer was quite unknown. So her participation in the dances staged with the songs of "Why Speak of Love," "I Wish My Honeyman Would Shine" and "Let's Get Married" in "The Girl at the Gate," is a distinct novelty to those who know Lucy Weston merely as a distinct, clear and expressive singer of songs in which the words are of greater importance than the melody. Nevertheless, in "The Girl at the Gate," is a distinct novelty to those who know Lucy Weston merely as a distinct, clear and expressive singer of songs in which the words are of greater importance than the melody. Nevertheless, in "The Girl at the Gate," is a distinct novelty to those who know Lucy Weston merely as a distinct, clear and expressive singer of songs in which the words are of greater importance than the melody.

She took up what is still known as "skirt dancing" where Letty Lind and Sylvia Grey left off and was one of the pupils of Fred Storey, the famous ballet master of the Gaiety. Storey danced here as a member of the Gaiety forces in 1888, when they visited America for the first time, he being cast as Quasimodo in "Miss Esmeralda," a burlesque based on Victor Hugo's "Notre Dame," and in one of the characters in "Monte Cristo, Jr." Somebody asked Miss Weston why she never before had danced in the musical plays in which she has taken part in this country. "Nobody insisted on my doing so," she replied, "and, as none of the managers seemed to know that I could dance, I simply said nothing about it. It's hard work and there's nothing extra for dancing in the pay roll envelope at the end of the week. Now? Well, I had to own up that I was a dancer in order to get the part in the La Salle piece. "Everybody dances in the La Salle shows" I was managerially informed when negotiations were opened up. No, I didn't have to go to school to qualify. Lucky, wasn't it, that I earned my living as a dancer, and as nothing else, in England for seven years before I ever was entrusted with a song?"

Has Fullest Confidence in Great Kidney Medicine
I was seriously ill for three months or more which finally terminated in such a weakened and painful condition that I was confined to my bed a great part of the time and unable to perform my ordinary household duties. Suffered with severe pains in my head, continuous pains in my back and shoulders, and unable to eat the lightest food. Treated with a local physician without receiving any beneficial results or noticing any improvement. Was advised by a friend to take Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and after giving it a fair trial I found my health was restored and can cheerfully and sincerely recommend Swamp-Root to any one suffering with kidney trouble, as I have the fullest confidence in its merits. It gave me a fair trial. I shall be very glad if my few words of appreciation can encourage other sufferers in taking the same treatment which has done so much for me.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. HANNAH CARLE,
420 S. Bell Ave., Springfield Ohio.
Before me a notary public, in and for Clark County and State of Ohio, personally appeared Hannah Carle, this 21st day of November, 1911, and made oath that the above statement was true in substance and fact.

CONFIDENT BELOIT WILL MEET DEFEAT

Janesville Basketball Dopsters See No Other Way Out Except That Locals Will go to Tournament.

(By Scope.)
Now that the strong contenders for the Appleton tournament have been eliminated in this district, the Janesville high school basketball team is out to make sure their claims to the right of entering this annual event, by announcing that they have a record of straight victories to their credit. They feel sure that they can defeat Beloit, Jefferson and Lake Mills, as they have defeated the strongest known contender in this district, the Evansville team. As far as is known these teams are the only teams left in this district. Racine defeated Kenosha, while Baraboo defeated Racine. With Baraboo's defeat at the hands of Edgerton, it looks like Racine was practically eliminated. Albany is running strong in the south western district, with Madison a close second. The locals win over Evansville puts them in the lead in this district.

The Beloit team will meet the locals this week. The game will be staged in the local gymnasium and will take place in the evening as debate has been postponed again. This game will practically show the locals' strength, as the Beloit players are scrappers and will fight for every point. The team from the Line City is probably heavier than last year, but the Janesville men are also heavier. The game will be a good one, and undoubtedly closer than the Evansville game. Janesville played at a disadvantage at Evansville, as is shown by the locals' winning by only eight points. Beloit has a new team, the only member from last year being Cornell, who is this year's captain. Beloit considers themselves and Janesville as the only contenders for the title in this district, and if this is true, a fast game can be expected on Friday night. From the looks of things, the state tournament this year will be different from previous years. Up to this year, the teams represented were from practically the same place each year, while this year, Appleton, and Sheboygan are already eliminated. Oshkosh is running strong, together with Superior and West Green Bay in the north. La Crosse is strong in the central west section, with Manitowish and Fond du Lac in the east central section. The race is keener this year than ever, and it will be close up to the final game which will take place on Saturday evening March 29, in the Lawrence College gymnasium.

DAY EVENING.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Janesville and vicinity: Fair
tonight and Thursday, not quite so cold tonight.

UNEXPECTED DELAY.

The decision on the recall proceedings, published in last evening's Gazette, will cause an unexpected delay,
and many people will be disappointed,
for the feeling prevailed, to large extent, that it would be better to meet the issue at an early date and have the question settled by popular vote.

The legality of the proceedings,
however, is of first importance, and no one will question the wisdom of the city attorney in protecting the city from illegal action. The judgment of the attorneys who join him in the decision, should satisfy the most prejudiced mind that hasty action is ill-advised, and sober second thought is demanded.

The recall law is so vague that opinions vary in construing it. The contention is made that the intent of the law is to recall but one commissioner
at a time, and that it does not apply to the entire board. It is also claimed that the law contemplated specific charges and not merely a complaint.

There is also some question about the percentage of voters necessary to demand action, through a petition. It seems to be conceded by the recall promoters in Janesville that thirty-three per cent is demanded, and therefore the nine hundred odd names were secured. The two hundred and forty names thrown out, as not registered voters, renders the petition illegal, under the construction.

The decision is worth a careful
reading, and the more it is studied,
the more convincing will be the arguments. So much interest has been aroused that it will perhaps be necessary for the courts to decide on several questions of legality.

In the meantime we can afford, as citizens, to possess our souls in patience. We have a city government which is free from the taint of graft or dishonesty. When our taxes are paid and we recover from the shock of an extra assessment—for which the commission is in no way responsible—we may discover that our condition is less deplorable than we imagined.

It is well to remember that time is a great pacifier, and also that time is necessary to demonstrate results,
when radical changes are made, in any line of work. This is especially true of a change in the form of government, and when this change is opposed by a large minority, more or less criticism is bound to result.

The commission plan is with us to stay, and the recall may become effective as soon as it complies with legal requirements. No more could be asked, and no less should be demanded.

Law is the foundation of government and stability depends upon respect for law. A new election under an illegal recall petition, would weaken the foundation, and could only result in disaster. It is better for all concerned, to make haste slowly,
where questions of such grave importance are involved.

THE HARD HEARTED EDITOR.

Once upon a time, in the language of fairy books, I took advantage of a hull in business to take a little trip to the shores of the bright blue sea.
Many things were missing from my wardrobe
to replenish which a day was spent in shopping. How well I remember the pleasures of that day!
The shoemaker was first called upon. Before leaving him I drew his attention to the fact that I was a customer of long standing and would very much appreciate it if he would supply me with a few pairs of shoe
laces without charge, which he readily did.

Then a visit was made to a department store in which I had an account, and to which for some time it had been my custom to send checks almost monthly. After making the necessary purchases, I modestly asked the clerk to give me a few pairs of gloves and some summer ties, with all of which he cheerfully came across.

In turn my cigar maker sent me a couple of boxes of cigars, the tailor contributed a fancy waistcoat, the hatter a cane, and so on until all needful things having been purchased and graft collected, I boked to the railroad ticket office. There I reminded them that I frequently traveled over their road and spent money with them,
and therefore would appreciate it if they would without charge send a trunk to my address in which to put my belongings when starting on my way. Not only a trunk, but in my home luggage kit bag was sent to my home
with the compliments of the railroad.
Fortune surely smiled that day and life was worth living. Just one thing more to do and then I might shake
the city's dust from my number tens.

By the way I had forgotten to tell you that I am the manufacturer of an automobile horn that emits a peculiar and fascinating sound. It occurred to me that if I could induce the newspaper in my town to use its news
columns to continually urge everyone
to buy the horn with the harsh,
abrupt note my business would prosper
as never before. I dropped in to tell the editor of my trip so that he might publish some copy I had written about the famous manufacturer of the only automobile horn worth blowing,
the one with a harsh, abrupt note.

What was my dismay to find that the harsh, abrupt note of my horn was sweet and soft as the music of celestial harps when compared with his harsh and abrupt notes, and although it may strain your imagination to even try to believe that anyone could be so grasping for a dollar, it is nevertheless true that this is what he said:

"Don't you know that we have pay rolls and white paper bills to meet?
Don't you realize that it is our business to transmit messages from individuals to the public, and that only by receiving pay for that service are we able to keep going? Don't you know that the telegraph companies and messenger service companies charge for the service they render even though you have from time to time paid them for previous service? Every inch of our space costs us real money. You might as well ask me to put my hand in my pocket and present you with a few dollars of real coin as to come in here begging for a few sticksful of free advertising for your business." He did not grasp my point of view.

Truly, the newspaper man is hard-
hearted and grasping, steeped in commercialism and lacking in charity.
Something for nothing is the order of the day and the newspapers of the land are besieged for free publicity,
as never before. Many people forget the fact that space is all the paper
has to sell, and also that it costs money to produce.

The city of Racine will vote on the commission plan of government, at the coming spring election. A petition signed by one thousand voters,
was recently filed with the mayor,
making the request. The plan is growing in popularity, and many citizens throughout the country are preparing to adopt it.

The recall promoters are naturally disappointed over the delay in proceedings, but they will realize the importance of being right, as will everyone else who gives the matter intelligent thought. The people can well afford to wait, where questions of illegality are involved.

President Taft is having a bit of a preamble in his efforts to place in nomination republican postmasters by his old friends, the senatorial opposition. Right in the fore front of the battle line is Wisconsin's senior senator.

Governor McGovern will have an opportunity to tell the Wisconsin state senate some things that perhaps the members have only guessed at. It promises to be a general cleaning up
of dirty political linen at best.

Some men do not know enough law
to be good lawyers, and too much law
to be good citizens, and yet they insist that what they think is correct and must be the law, regardless of what may be the consequences.

The Missouri man, who would make the buttons on the back of a woman's dress the size of a dollar, must have had to button his wife's new party
gown up some time or other.

January may have been the mildest month in years, but February does not start off with spring breezes.

It is all right to decry the legal entanglements of the law, but some way or other persons who run foul of the requirements and ignore them always come to trouble in the end.

These are the days the ice man enjoys and the coal man glories in. The consumer does not appreciate the glories of the other two to any appreciable extent.

TORCH OF INCENDIARIES PRODUCED AT HEARING

Chicago, Feb. 5.—A "torch" such as used by incendiaries was introduced today in the arson inquiry.
The torch was composed of a cigar
box with air holes and filled with kerosene soaked paper, a wax fuse, a candle and matches. The method used, it was explained, is to light the candle which, while the fire bug is escaping, burns slowly down to the fuse and ignites the oil soaked paper. On top of the cigar box a rubber bag filled with gasoline is placed. This explodes, scattering flaming liquid about the place to be burned.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

The installment plan.
In eighteen hundred eighty-one
I listened to a man,
And he sold me a fine shotgun
On the installment plan.
I'd like to get the paying done
But don't believe I can.

Each Monday during all the years
He's been right at the door.
It seems as though he really fears
I'll seek some foreign shore;
And each time that the man appears
I swear to have his gore.

The whole world seems to stop until
I pay my share each week.
You'd think it was a monstrous bill
To hear the fellow speak
In tones mysterious until
I feel just like a sneak.

I'm sure that when I die
I'll still be on his slate,
And every Monday he will hie
Unto the pearly gates
And call me out and heave a sigh
If I'm one minute late.

Sure! So Is Everything Else.
Elevator call in department store:

"GENTS' CLOTHING, SHOES AND NECKTIE

long as you earn plenty of money
and never spend any.

Two can live as cheaply as one if they live with her folks and don't pay any board.

They say it costs twice as much
to live nowadays as it did forty years ago. Well, by golly, it is worth about five times as much.

cent.

The brass bands with the flashiest
uniforms generally make the music
that is the hardest to listen to.

Old Col. Hardtack, a Civil war veteran, had a cork leg which caused his family a great deal of trouble.

When there was anything in particular to be done around the farm,
which the colonel should have done,
he accidentally lost the cork leg and was thereby incapacitated for manual labor of any kind. His wife would invariably hunt up the leg, however,
and found it in the most surprising places. Once it was found hanging in the well by a string and several times buried in the hay. Finally the deceptive instincts of his wife began to pall upon the warrior and he went to the village thirteenth garage
and sold the leg for a quart of the stuff
that made Kentucky more or less famous. The proprietor of the place cut the leg up into corks for his bottles and the colonel thought his troubles were over. But his inventive wife had made him a wooden leg out of an old white tree and has fastened it onto him with iron straps locked with three padlocks, to which she holds the keys.

George Fitch, the famous author of the Slawh stories and the motor-

the writer recently and read birds were on the bill of fare. Reed birds are so small that it is almost necessary to take a microscope to perceive them on the plate.

"Georgia, how do they get these microbes, anyhow, do they shoot 'em
up or catch them in a net?"
was asked.

"Well," drawled George, "I am surprised that you don't know. They catch them on fly paper of course."

HAMBURG AMERICAN LINE HAS TRANS-PACIFIC SERVICE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, Feb. 5.—The departure of the steamship Sildonia from Hamburg today for the East. The ship was Suez Canal, is preliminary to the extension of the East Asiatic service of the Hamburg-American Line across the Pacific to Tacoma, Seattle and Vancouver. By this service the Hamburg-American Company will become the first to completely circumnavigate
the globe with two regular services,
whose terminal are Tacoma and Hamburg. Its Kosmos line has for years operated between Hamburg and Ta-

America, thence through the Straits of Magellan and up the western coast to Puget Sound. The latter service will be continued unchanged after the

ROSA WANTS WEIGHT MARKED ON PACKAGES

Beloit Assemblyman to Introduce Measure For Solution of Short Weight Complaint.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 5.—When the grocer sells a customer 2 pounds there should be no short weight. This is the philosophy back of a bill to be introduced by Assemblyman C. D. Rosa of Beloit. It will provide that the exact weight of every package be stamped on the package. The idea of the measure is an extension of the law
which was passed at the last session of the legislature requiring the exact measurements to be stamped on berry
boxes.

Judge Rosa believes that if the weight and price are marked on the package the average housewife will seldom be over-charged and will weigh her packages often to ascertain if the weights correspond. The measure will not be introduced until the latter part of the week.

For Winter Course.
A winter course in high schools for the boys who cannot begin school work in September is proposed in the bill introduced this morning by Assemblyman E. C. Moland of Dane county.

The plan is experimental and will apply to only ten rural high schools the first year. The course is to begin between Oct. 30 and Nov. 15 and continue for one half of the regular high school year. The qualifications for admission shall be the same as that of the regular high school. The course of study to be pursued by these schools in the winter terms shall be approved by the state superintendent.
Additional state aid is to be granted to these schools. Two-thirds of the expense is to be paid by the state but not in excess of $500. The bill carries with it a $5,000 appropriation.

Aids Farmer Boy.
"This bill will do something for the farmer boy who desires an education," said Prof. E. C. Moland, who is the principal of one of the largest township high schools of the state. "The course will start when the fall work is done and it will conclude in the spring before the spring work begins.
Instead of the boy staying around
home or going to some uncredited
school, he will have an opportunity to pursue a regular high school course.
So far as I know, no other state has ever tried this plan."

Sentimental Letters From Poetess Gets Solon "In Bad"

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—Sentimental communications flooded the mails of members of the legislature the past week and in one case, at least, threatened to shatter the domestic happiness of the recipient. The messages, which came to a large number of members of the lower house, contained verse, short paragraphs and personal letters, usually couched in language most endearing. The writer was an Eau Claire woman, well known in state circles for her penchant for sending her literary effusions to persons in high places and to various favored newspapers.

One member from western Wisconsin nearly came to grief when his wife received the letter and read it first. It was not until the assemblyman learned that many others among his colleagues were likewise treated that he was able to prove his innocence. Another solon thought so well of the "poem" that came to him that he composed one dedicated to his Muse. The former was entitled "My Sweetheart," and the assemblyman in his four-stanza response answered the call for a soulmate.

"The day drag on with dreary pace,
And moments seem like hours,
When I no more behold thy face
Or stroll with thee in sunny bowers."

The remaining verses were of too
tender sentiment for public expression.

The Gazette Parcels Post Maps

The Gazette Parcels Post Maps were received today. These maps were engraved and printed by one of the largest map publishing concerns in the United States. The Gazette has had considerable difficulty in obtaining a map that would meet the approval of postal authorities and finally had a map printed according to special specifications.

This map is a good map of the United States in addition to showing all the postal units and zones. It is especially printed for all post offices and their rural routes in Unit 2263. The map is considered the best yet published for general use. The first zone about which there has been so much dispute, is indicated by a quadrangle so that there can be no doubt about what constitutes this zone.

The map is guaranteed to check with the Government Parcels Post Guide, and can be used in connection therewith as easily as the Government map. The map will be sold at a nominal price of 25 cents when called for at the office, or it will be mailed for 35 cents.

Those who wish to pay a year's subscription in advance, will be given a Parcels Post Map free.

SEAGRAVE COMPANY WILL DELIVER TRUCK WITHIN NINETY DAYS

Seagrave Motor Fire Apparatus Company Makes Promise in Contract With City of Janesville.

Janesville will receive its first piece of motor-propelled fire apparatus within ninety days according to the contract made between the city and the Seagrave Motor Fire Apparatus Company of Columbus, Ohio, in pursuance of the acceptance of the company's bid by the city council yesterday afternoon. The bid of the Seagrave Company was accepted in preference to those of six other companies, some of which were higher and some lower than the figure accepted—$300. The company guarantees all the material and workmanship, but it will replace any part found within three years to be defective in workmanship or material. In case the city desires to test the apparatus before payment the test shall be made within ten days after it arrives at its destination and a written report made to the company. Examination of the specifications of the new motor chemical and hose wagon shows that it is constructed throughout of first class materials and according to the most approved designs and engineering practice. The engine is of the six cylinder, water cooled type, developing 75½ horse power according to the A. L. A. M. rating. The cylinders are cast in pairs with integral water jackets, have a 5½ inch bore and six inch stroke. Intake and exhaust valve chambers are on opposite sides of the cylinders; the auxiliary valves are rotary and all gears are encased. The crank case is in two parts and removable for access to mechanism without disturbing bearings or other parts. The crank shaft is to be of pickled steel turned from a solid forging and heat treated. It will rest on seven bearings and the cam shaft on eight. All engine bearings will be of anti-friction bearing metal except where ball-bearings are used. Lubrication will be by a positive multiple force feed oiler, mechanically driven from the cam shaft. The cooling apparatus consists of the centrifugal pump driven from the cam shaft, large honey-comb radiator, and adjustable fan.

Transmission, differential and driving gears on the truck will be enclosed in one housing cast in two parts. The transmission will be of the selective type with three speeds, forward and reverse. All gears run in an oil bath. The clutch is of the leather covered cone type and of generous proportion.

Final drive to the rear wheels is by two heavy side chains and the gear ratio is 4.44 to 1 on high speed. There will be five brakes. The ignition system consists of two sets of spark plugs, one supplied by dry cells through coil and timer, and the other by a Bosch high tension magneto. The carburetor is of the float feed pattern.

The frame of the truck is to be of solid rolled channel steel, thoroughly braced. The front axle will be of the "I" beam type, the rear three inch section and solid. Both will have taper roller bearings. The wheel base will be 160 inches; wheels artillery type; front tires 28x5; rear tires 38x3½ dual; all of solid rubber.

The body will carry a chemical tank in front placed crosswise and is to have space for carrying 1,500 feet of 2½ inch hose. It will be built of sheet and angle steel with the floor of hardwood strips placed 1½ inches apart. A compartment eight or ten inches wide, running lengthwise of the body will provide room for tarpaulins. Brass hand rails will be mounted on the body.

Equipment specified in contract consists of one 24 foot trussed extension ladder, 12 foot long, when folded, two twelve foot roof ladders, two pick axes, 1 crow bar, 1 brass lantern, all in holders; one locomotive bell, six brass trimmed metal holders on the rear step; tool kits, extra drive chain links, one pike pole, plaster hook, bumper for front end of car, hose laying out device under rear step.

The lighting equipment will be made up of a ten inch kerosene revolving searchlight, two nine inch rigid lamp headlights, tail light on rear step, all electric. The chemical tank will have a fifty gallon capacity and there will also be two three gallon hand Jabsco extinguishers. The gear and frames of the machine will be painted battleship gray and the ladders natural finish. The machine is to have a speed of from thirty-five to forty miles an hour.

PLEADS GUILTY OF THEFT; SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Heine Widenorff who when arraigned in the municipal court yesterday morning on the charge of stealing a Norfolk jacket from Miss Margaret Joyce entered a plea of "not guilty," changed his plea to "guilty" when brought up for trial this morning. As this is the first time Widenorff has been brought into court and his offense was committed while he was under the influence of liquor, Judge Field said he would suspend passing sentence upon him for two weeks, and at the end of that time, if he had kept sober and worked steadily, make the penalty a light one.

FIND THAT WIRING IS TOO EXPENSIVE

County Building Committee Decides Not to Supply House Offices With Electric Lights. Workmen were busy today installing several new gas lights in parts of the court house which are in need of additional lighting facilities. The building committee of the county board was authorized to investigate the feasibility of wiring the court house for electric lights and to install the same with the necessary fixtures if they deemed it advisable. It has decided that the expense would be too great. An outlay of $30 for additional gas lights it was decided, would correct the lighting deficiencies for the time, whereas it would cost some $200 or more to put in electricity. The necessity of remodeling the interior of the court house has been hinted and the committee may have had this in mind, although the board has never taken any action or discussed the matter.

JOURNEYMEN PLUMBERS TO SEEK STATE LAWS

The journeymen plumbers and gas fitters are to petition the state legislature to pass a bill providing for a state inspector, who will have the power to inspect all plumbing installed in the cities of the first, second and third class. This bill they claim, will protect the people from unsanitary plumbing which, it is declared to be the principal cause of many diseases. They assert defects in plumbing will be stopped if this law is passed as the master and journeymen plumbers will be required to have a license and their work to be inspected by the state inspector who shall receive a nominal fee for his work. The fourth annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Steam and Gas fitters came to an end last night at Racine.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

SUBJECTIVE OR OBJECTIVE.

Did you ever realize to what an astonishing extent pleasure and pain, desire and dislike, are subjective rather than objective, that is, produced by own minds and our own condition rather than by external objects?

Suppose I make that more concrete. For two or three years I have been thinking about the indescribably delicious orangeade which I once bought at a little corner grocery store in a small country town. A few weeks ago I chanced to visit that town again, and, of course, I hastened to the little corner grocery store to see if they still had the magic drink. They did, I ordered, and I waited eagerly, but when I lifted it to my lips what was my astonishment to find nothing but very ordinary orangeade, not as good as that I could buy in the city any time. Surely this was not the same thing I had had there two years ago. I asked. They insisted it was the very same, made by the same man, with the same materials, and brought on witnesses to convince me, while I listened in disbelief.

Since then I have been thinking about the matter, and I have found this solution of the mystery. The day I drank that orangeade two years ago was a tremendously hot day. I had been walking in the blazing sun along a dusty country road. I was unexpectably hot and thirsty. Undoubtedly it was my condition that put the magic in the simple drink, not its maker. And so three-quarters of the pleasure I took in that orangeade was subjective and not objective.

Again, at the end of a vacation at a primitive summer resort where the mattresses were of the kind that seem to be making an effort to push up through your anatomy, I spent a long day, journeying in such a soft and luxurious bed as that little inn afforded me. So impressed was I by its comfort that I actually asked the manager of the hotel the make and was surprised to find that it was a most inexpensive affair, far inferior to those in my own home. You see the softness and luxury were in my mind and in my condition of weariness rather than in the bed.

Surely you have had similar experiences, when you attributed great charm or lack of it to some object and found after all that most of this feeling was subjective.

And don't you imagine that very often the same thing is the case when we don't find it out or admit it to ourselves? For instance, our admiration and desire for some expensive article we think for caused by the beauty and desirability of the article. Isn't it often merely subjective and inspired by our knowledge that the article desired by other people, in other words, is in the style?

And again I wonder how often love itself is subjective, and is inspired more by the lover's desire to love, than by any wonderful charm in the beloved. But I am afraid that is a dangerous subject and I had better stop right here.

at least once a week.

Warm White Sweater—Lukewarm water and washing powder; put in sweater, let remain about 20 minutes, then wash through hands and rinse in lukewarm water. Do not rub sweater on washboard. Lay in piece of white paper to dry.

Things Worth Knowing.

To make fried chicken much as pleasing to the sight as to the taste, pack it in well-greased pound baking powder tins. When cold turn out and pour into round slices.

I have found that putting cold fried meat into top part of double boiler and heating it, makes it just like freshly fried meat. Makes tough meat tender and brings out the flavor.

Use top of tin spice box for cooking utensil scraper; the more it is used the sharper it gets.

To fasten umbrella handle that comes off easily, wet piece of newspaper, wrap it around wood, slip the handle over it. It will be secure.

The Table.

Meat Halls—Cheap, good and healthy. One pound round steak put through meat grinder (any leftover meat may be used with it.) One egg, two slices bread soaked in water, some onion chopped fine, a little pepper and salt. Mix well and make small balls. Have pint (or more) of boiling water into which some onion may be added and a small piece of butter; drop balls in it, boil 15 minutes, then thicken gravy and serve warm. There will be plenty for a good-sized family.

China Roast (Lenten Meatless Dish)—Soak two cups dried lentils over night, cook in fresh water until tender, dress through colander, mix with two cups bread crumbs and one cup ground peanuts. Season with salt, pepper and onion juice, shape into loaf in well-buttered baking dish. Brush with beaten egg and bake half an hour.

Baked Apples With Dressing—Peel and core nine apples, cutting them in halves. Bake until tender and a delicious brown. Remove carefully to serving dish and pour over them following dressing.

To one pint boiling water add generous lump of butter and sugar to sweeten well. Thicken with cornstarch, add flavoring and pour over apples.

SOUP AND SOUP STOCK.

During the cold weather soup stock may be kept on hand indefinitely, and with the addition of different herbs and flavors one may have an endless variety of soups.

Brown Soup Stock—Wipe a lean pound of beef, and cut the lean meat in inch cubes; brown a third of the meat in a hot frying pan in the marrow from the bones. Put the remaining two-thirds of the meat into a kettle with the bones, add cold water and let stand a half hour. Place on the back part of the range, add the browned meat and heat gradually to the boiling point. Skim, as the scum rises, cover and cook slowly six hours, keeping the liquid below the boiling point. A fireless cooker is an ideal place to cook soup. To this stock add a half cup each of celery, cut fine, turnip, carrot and onion, a sprig of marjoram, two sprigs of parsley, half a teaspoonful of pepper corns, six cloves, half a bayleaf and three sprigs of thyme and a half spoonful of salt. Cook one and a half hours; strain and cool as quickly as possible.

Macaroni Soup—Cook a fourth of a cup of macaroni, broken in half-inch pieces, until soft in boiling water. Drain and add to a quart of brown soup stock, heated to the boiling point. Season with salt and pepper, and serve hot.

White Soup Stock—Wipe three pounds of the knuckle of veal, remove from the bone and cut in small pieces. Cut a pound of lean beef, also in small pieces, put the bone and meat in a soup kettle, cover with cold water and bring quickly to the boiling point; add an onion, a stalk of celery, half a teaspoon of pepper corns, half a bay leaf, two sprigs of thyme, two cloves, with three quarts water. Boil three or four hours, until the stock is reduced one-half. Strain, cool and the soup is ready to use.

The Hebrews who live in Germany speak the German language, using among themselves a peculiar dialect called "Yiddish," that term being itself a corrupt form of the German word Yudisch. Russian Hebrews also use this language, while by a curious chain of historic events Turkish Hebrews speak Spanish. ## The Man Who Was Progressively Pleasant

HE entered the real estate office and said she had been told they had a small house to rent.

The three men seated there looked from one to the other. Evidently they didn't want to be disturbed. Perhaps they were very tired. To the woman, they were a brand new species of real estate agents, for all the agents she had come in contact with had fairly run her down, held her by the throat until they had unloaded a house, or a lot upon her and not left her till her bank account was wrecked and her future mortgaged. So she gazed at these three, indifferent spectators with amazement not unmingled with awe. She felt she was on the threshold of an important discovery in natural history.

"Is the Brown house rented?" finally asked one.

"I don't know. Is the Brown house rented?" asked this man of the one at the desk.

"I don't know," he replied, "I'll look." Wearily he opened a book and hunted through its pages.

"No, it isn't," he said, resignedly. "I'll phone them up and ask them." Evidently he was hoping against hope it wouldn't have to be shown.

"No, it isn't rented," he said, as he hung up the phone.

Then the three men looked at each other.

"Jack, suppose you take the lady around to see it," said the fat man in the front of the office.

Jack looked slightly huffed. "Mr. Dobbins will be here in a little while and I've promised—"

"You'll have time before he comes," interrupted the fat man, suavely. So Jack jammed his hat on his head and went out and helped the lady into the waiting auto.

"You have a beautiful town," said the lady, pleasantly.

"Yes."

"Oh isn't this a beautiful street?"

"This is one of our prettiest streets."

"I never saw such beautiful houses in my life."

"We do have pretty houses. I'll take you through this street. There are some particularly fine residences here."

"Your streets are well kept, too."

"Yes, we've got a fine city government."

"I've heard a lot about this town. You hear of it all over the country."

"We don't think there is a finer anywhere."

He began to talk glowingly of the many advantages of the town, and of the country about it.

"Oh this is a lovely place," said the lady, as they stopped in front of the house for rent.

He quite beamed.

She looked through it quickly and decided to take it.

He beamed still more. On the way back to the office he whirled her through some of the prettiest parts of the town, and pointed out its famous features. Smilingly, he helped her out of the machine, and as a final evidence of the goodwill that now reigned through his entire being, he lovingly took from his own pocketbook, a five-dollar note, and exchanged it for the five heavy, silver dollars he had taken from the cash register as her change when she paid the first month's rent.

Could her self-sacrifice go further? As he bade her a smiling adieu and hoped she would like the house and enjoy her stay in the town, she felt he was a transformed being.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—My complexion is not very nice. Some one told me to use the cream off the milk. Will that be good? (2)—My nose is red and shiny. What can I do? (3)—Is talcum powder good for the hair?

(4)—I am always kind of bashful when with young men. How can I overcome that? ANXIOUS.

(1)—Buttermilk is better. (2)—Tight lacing or a tight collar will make the nose red. A bad stomach will also do it, and make the complexion poor. Tight shoes are bad for the circulation and will redden the nose. Cold-cream the nose gently and apply powder to it during the day.

(3)—No. A good egg shampoo is the best way to clean the hair.

(4)—Be sure that you look nice, then forget all about yourself, and you will no longer be bashful with anybody. Remember that men are not wonderful beings at all, and that they are not thinking of you any more than they are of other girls.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I met a young man at his father's moving picture show. I go there several nights a week. He sits down by me and speaks to me. How can I win his love? He comes to my home to see me and takes me to the show. I never was introduced to him. He never me to go out riding with him. Is it proper for me to go?

I am 18 and he only 17. I think his mother objects to his going with a girl on account of his age.

(2)—I am a brunet and would like to make my hair black or blonde. Would it harm the skull?

BROKEN HEARTED.

(1)—The boy is only a "kid," my dear girl, and I should think you would be above wanting to win "puppy love." You can be a good influence for him, if you are not foolish, and show his mother that her boy is not being harmed by going with a nice girl.

If you want to fall in love, look for a MAN, and give the boy a chance to grow up.

(2)—You hair will be most becoming.

Cod Liver Oil and Iron have proved to be the two most successful tonics the world has ever known—1903 for the blood and the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil as a strength and tissue builder for body and nerves, and for the successful treatment of throat and lung troubles.

Two eminent French chemists discovered a method of separating the curative medicinal elements of the cod's liver from the oil or grease which is thrown away, but to these medicinal elements, tonic iron is now added, thus combining in Vinol the two most world-famed tonics.

As a body-builder and strength creator for weak run-down people, for feeble old people, delicate children, for chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis or pulmonary troubles.

(5)—I hope you won't. I heard a very wise man say, the other day, that hundreds of men he employs, the ones always sure to "fall down" on a specially fine job are the cigarette smokers. You don't want to be that kind of a man, do you?

(6)—Better go a gymnasium and get some good out of the exercise. I never knew a boy or girl yet to get any real good out of public dances.

(8)—Yes.

CANCER A SIGN OF PHYSICAL DEGENERATION.

Professor Von Wasserman of Berlin thinks he has discovered a clue to a cure for cancer, based on the same theory as "606." He has found a combination of chemicals having an affinity for the cancer cell and interferes with its growth and gradually softens the tumor. The growth of an external cancer tumor can usually be arrested by the use of an injection or of a caustic plaster, without danger of distributing the cancer cells to establish new growths in other parts of the body, but Sir Henry Butlin, a distinguished English surgeon, lately argued before the Royal College of Surgeons, that "cancer is a growth from within the body," that it is a sign of "general physical degeneration," that "it may be possible to check its development at the first sign by improving the general physical condition," and that "cancer calls for treatment in a large degree like tuberculosis." This position has been maintained in these hints for two years, and is now supported by all the recent discoveries and opinions of the most distinguished investigators.

WRITES OF NEW CAMP IN MINING DISTRICT

W. W. WATT SENDS INTERESTING LETTER FROM WESTERN COUNTRY.

TOWN GROWS IN NIGHT

City Sprang Up in a Night and is Growing Very Rapidly Each Week As Find Grows Richer.

Reno, Nevada, Jan. 21, 1913.

Editor Gazette:

What has already proved to be one of the richest gold discoveries made in Nevada since the famous days of Goldfield has just been uncovered about 150 miles northeast of Reno in a district known as Rochester, which name the new camp has assumed in the past few days. Twenty-four hours after the word had been given out regarding the rich discoveries fully three hundred excited men were on the scene to locate where before but few white men had even been. The rush is on now in real earnest and every incoming train to Reno from the East and South is bringing scores of mining men enroute to the new camp of Rochester. Among the late arrivals here is Al K. Wheeler, a former well known Janesville boy who made himself wealthy in the mining game out here when Goldfield and Tonopah were in their boom days eight years ago. Wheeler came here direct from New York City, being one of a group of well known mining men and capitalists. Wheeler informed me that the New York papers of late had devoted considerable space to the new camp and that in order to be early on the scene he left on the first train. The town of Lovelock, Nevada, is the nearest handy rail point, being on the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad. In order to get an early "rubber" of the new camp I boarded the late train here and after a six hours' trip reached Lovelock, which is "a place about the size of Edgerton. The place showed plenty of new life, the hotels being crowded, so that private houses were getting any kind of a price for rooms and meals. The streets looked as though Ringling Bros' circus had struck the place. Six and eight horse teams hauling supplies and lumber were to be seen on all sides pulling out for the new camp just twelve miles away. Automobile owners managed to do a thriving business in spite of a foot of snow, and seven dollars each way was the price of the auto trip. One long whiskered miner who happened to get into our machine, refused to settle, stating "that the price was a pure robbery scheme." All I remembered seeing of him was just his feet sticking out of a snow bank where he was thrown head first over the windshield. Six and eight horse teams broke a fairly good trail through the snow so that we covered the twelve miles in a little over an hour.

In just two weeks time Rochester has seen the erection of fully five hundred tents and three hundred wooden buildings of cheap construction, less than a dozen being over a story. Probably nothing is more interesting to the outsider than the life of a mining camp. Certainly Rochester is portraying all the types that were ever found in other mining excitements and the writer can testify to scenes which the average person unused to such sights would consider proposterous and untrue.

It was 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning when the writer struck Rochester. Saloons were open, games were in full swing, and around the stoves which were throwing out their genial warmth in the drink emporiums was collected a motley crowd of camp followers ever ready to respond to an invitation "to have a drink."

On tables, benches, chairs, hanging limply over barrels, boxes and any other handy object were men fast asleep. They had sought the saloons for the warmth of the stoves and had fallen asleep. They were stretched on the floor where the chairs and benches were, all occupied. It was a sight which is common to mining camps. In one saloon around the table set in one corner of the room were eight men playing "Big Indian," the gambling game which is now all the rage. Before them was stacked gold and silver and under the pile were greenbacks. The play was brisk. In "Big Indian" money moves rapidly. It is not a poor man's game and neither is Rochester a poor man's camp. It costs money to play "Big Indian" just as it costs money to drive tunnels through solid rock to reach a vein of ore eighty feet distant.

In one saloon which assumed the dignity of a dancing hall because it possessed a piano, the piano player was too far gone from the effects of the night's business to even see the keys. He was hanging helpless over a barrel and no amount of coaxing could induce him to stagger over to the piano and grind out a tune. But the piano did not lack for players. Other fingers could "tick the keys," and they did. It was near daylight, but one hour is as good as another in a mining camp where excitement runs high.

The all night restaurants were all doing a rushing business. A cup of near coffee with canned milk and a sandwich cost "two bits" and you had to play in advance before waited on. Every article sold in a camp of this kind is spot cash. In one of the saloons Sunday the Rev. Adams of Reno held the first religious services in the town. The fifty men who crowded in front of the bar to hear the sermon were a study in themselves. It certainly was a scene for a novel writer. The present population of Rochester is now estimated at 2,000, where not a living soul existed two months ago. All this excitement is the result of rich strike made on the property by an old miner by the name of Nonzel, interest in the camp centers on what is known as "Nenzel Peak." It has indications of gold values that are startling and tunnels are now being run into the hillsides to determine values at depth. A twenty-foot shaft has showed values of as high as $250 to the ton.

Saturday a deal was closed whereby A. W. Stowe, representing New York and Montreal parties, took over two groups of claims owned by L. E. Dunn, located at the head of Indian Canyon, near Spring Creek. The property comprises 22 claims, known as the Moonlight group. The consideration is given as $220,000 and a substantial payment was made.

Mr. Stowe has sixty days in which to commence operations, but he expects them to arrive within three weeks, when preparations for big mining will be begun. A boarding house, bunk house, assay office, blacksmith shops, etc., will be built and three shifts will be employed.

It is planned to run a tunnel 4,000 feet long. This will crosscut the entire twenty-two claims. At the face of the tunnel when it is in 4,000 feet, a depth of 2,000 feet will have been attained. In a distance of 800 feet this tunnel will tap the biggest ore chute that shows on the surface and before reaching this chute will cut five veins which show on the surface.

Mr. Stowe is authority for the statement that twelve veins are exposed on the surface, all showing shipping ore that assays from $50 to $1,500 a ton. Some of the ore is practically all gold and some nearly all silver, while much contains nearly equal values. One ore chute contains quite a body from which an assay of 495 ounces of silver, $42 in gold and 30 per cent lead was obtained.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

TRUNKS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

A TRUNK is a piece of perishable freight which usually manages to perish at the first transfer and spill baggage and hair goods all over the depot platform. When a trunk once falls into the hands of a red-whiskered baggage agent with canker spots on his temper and the ferocious ugliness of a trick of the telephone stands about as much show as a lean man in a subway exit.

Trunks are made of soft pine and glue, and when reinforced with a few guy ropes can be swayed quite a distance without falling apart in the baggage car. You can never tell by its looks how a trunk is going to act. One man will invest in a brand new trunk, with iron ribs and fire-proof compartments, send it two stations east, and have it returned minus its front teeth and looking like the wreck of the Hesperus, while another will take an old, exhausted family relic, stuff it full of bedding and hand-painted china, ship it 4,000 miles over twelve connecting lines, and have it turn up without a dent in its sang froid.

The older a trunk gets the more a woman thinks of it. Old trunks are usually placed in the garret, in such a place that when a man goes up to hunt for his last summer suit he will fall over the baby's high chair and raise a neat but not a very comfortable pile of old trunks, under which a pile of decrepit comforters and discarded petticoats, so that when her husband breaks into it for something breath of the industrious moth ball. This is a criminal practice which has shortened many a man's life in addition to raising purple bumps on his anatomy.

All trunks are equipped with a Yale lock which can be picked with the fingers while at home but has to be opened with a screw driver at the hotel. A great deal of money has been spent in telephoning to the hired girl for a trunk key which was placed in the upper right-hand drawer of the chiffonier, next to the powder puff, with the result that the girl usually manages to send the front door key.

CHAPTER I.

Twilight in the Park.

"You may wait, Renaud."

The voice was firm, but the lady herself hesitated as she stepped from the tonneau. There was no answer. Holding the flapping ends of her veil away from her face, she turned and looked fairly at the driver of the machine.

He seemed a businesslike, capable man, though certain minor details of his chauffeur's rig were a bit unusual, and now that he had been obliged, by some discomfort, to remove his goggles, his face appeared pleasant and quite untanned. His passenger noted these things, remarking: "Oh, it isn't Renaud!"

"No, Mademoiselle; Renaud hadn't showed up at the office when you telephoned, so they put me on in his place."

"Ah, I see." Accent seemed to imply, however, that she was not quite pleased. "The manager sent you. And your name is—?"

"My name—rather odd name—Hand."

The face half hidden behind the veil remained impassive. A moment's hesitation, and then the lady turned away with a short, "You will wait?"

"As mademoiselle wishes. Or shall I perhaps follow slowly along the drive?"

"No, wait here. I shall return—soon."

The young woman walked away, erect, well-poised, lifting skirts skillfully, as she paused a moment at the top of the stone steps leading down into the tiny park. The driver of the machine, free from observation, allowed a perplexed look to occupy his countenance. "What the devil is to pay if she doesn't return—soon!"

The avenue lifts a camel's hump toward the sky in the space of fifteen blocks, and on the top, secure as the head of a chieftain, stands the noble portico of the old college. To the westward, as every one knows, lie the river and the more pretentious park; on the east an abrupt descent offers space for a small grassy playground for children, who may be seen, during the sunny hours of the day, romping over the slope.

As the gaze of the woman swept over the charming little pleasure, and beyond, over the miles of sign-boards, roofs, chimneys and intersecting streets, the serious look disappeared from her face. Summer haze and distance shed a gentle beauty over what she knew to be a clamorous city—New York. Angles were softened, noises subdued, sensational scenes lost in the dimmed perspective. To a chance observer, the prospect would have been deeply suggestive; in the woman it stirred many memories. She put back her veil; her face glowed; a long sigh escaped her lips. Slowly she walked down the steps, along the sloping path to a turn, where she sank down on a bench. A rosy, tired child, rather the worse for mud-pies, and hanging reluctantly at the hand of a nonchalant nurse, brought a bit of the woman's emotion to the surface. She smiled radiantly at the lagging infant.

The face revealed by the uplifted veil was of a type to accompany the youthful but womanly figure and the spirited tread. Beautiful she would be counted, without doubt, by many an observer; those who loved her would call her beautiful without stint. But more appealing than her beauty was the fine spirit—a strong, free spirit, loving honesty and courage—which glowed like a flame behind her beauty. Best of all, perhaps, was a touch of quaintness, a slightly comic twist to her lips, an imperceptible alertness of manner, which revealed to the initiated that she had a sense of humor in excellent running order. It was evident that the little excursion was of the nature of a pilgrimage. The idle hour, the bit of holiday, became a memorial, as recollection brought back to her the days of childhood spent down yonder, a few squares away, in this very city. They seemed bright in retrospect, like the pleasant paths of a quiet garden, but they had ended abruptly, and had been followed by years of activity and colorful experience in another country. Through it all what anticipations had been lodged in her return to Home! Something there would complete the story—the story with its secret ecstasies and aspirations—the story of the ardent springs of youth.

Withdrawing her gaze from the scene below, though with apparent reluctance, she took from the pocket of her coat an opened envelope which she regarded a moment with thoughtfulness, before drawing forth the enclosures. There were two letters, one of which was brief and written in bad script on a single sheet of paper bearing a legal head. It was dated at Charlesport, Maine, and stated that the writer, in conformity with the last wish of his friend and client, Hercules Thayer, was ready to transfer certain deeds and papers to the late Mr. Thayer's designated heir, Agatha Redmond; also that the writer requested an interview at Miss Redmond's earliest convenience.

Holding the half-opened sheets in her hand, the lady closed her eyes and sat motionless, as if in the grasp of an absorbing thought. With the disappearing child, the signs of life on the hillside had diminished. The traffic of the street passed far below, now and then sounded above, but no one passed her way. The hum of the city made a blurred wash of sound, like the varying yet steady wash of the sea. As she opened her eyes again, she saw that the twilight had perceptibly deepened. Far away, lights began to flash out in the city, as if a million fireflies, by twos and threes and dozens, were waking to their nocturnal revelry.

On the hill the light was still good, and the lady turned again to her reading. The other letter was written on single sheets of thin paper in an old-fashioned, beautiful hand. Wherever a double occurred, the first was written long, in a style of sixty years ago; and the whole letter was as easily legible as print. Across the top was written: "To Agatha Redmond, daughter of my ward and dear friend, Agatha Shaw Redmond;" and below that, in the lawyer's choppy handwriting, was a date of nearly a year previous. As Agatha Redmond read the second letter, a smile, half of sadness, half of pleasure, overspread her countenance. It ran as follows:

"My Dear Agatha: I take my pen in hand to address you, the daughter of the dearest friend of my life, for the first time in the twenty-odd years of your existence. Once as a child you saw me, and you have doubtless heard my name from your mother's people from time to time; but I can scarcely hope that any knowledge of my private life has come to you. It will be easy, then, for you to pardon an old man for giving you, in this fashion, the confidence he has never been able to bestow in the flesh.

"When you read this epistle, my dear Agatha, I shall have stepped into that next mystery, which is Death. Indeed, the duty which I am now discharging serves as partial preparation for that very event. This duty is to make you heir to my house and estate and to certain accessory funds which will enable you to keep up the place.

"You may regard this act, possibly, as the idiosyncrasy of an unbalanced mind; it is certain that some of my kinsfolk will do so. But while I have been able to bear up under their greater or less displeasure for many years, I find myself shrinking before the possibility of dying absolutely unknown and forgotten by you. Your mother, Agatha Shaw, of blessed memory now for many years, was my ward and pupil after the death of your grandfather. I think I may say without undue self-congratulation that few women of their time have enjoyed as sound a scheme of education as your mother. She had a knowledge of mathematics, could construe both in Latin and Greek, and had acquired a fair mastery of the historic civilization of the Greeks, Egyptians and ancient Babylonians. While these attainments would naturally be insufficient for a man's work in life, yet for a woman they were of an exceptional order.

"Sufficient to say that in your mother's character these noteworthy abilities were supplemented by gracious, womanly arts; and when she arrived at maturity, I offered her the honor of marriage.

"It is painful for me to recall the scene and the consequences of your mother's refusal of my hand, even after these years of philosophical reflection. It was idle for a man of parts to allow a mere preference in regard to his domestic situation to influence his course of action in any essential manner, and I have never permitted my career to be shaped by such details. But from that time, however, the course of my life was changed. From the impassioned orator and preacher I was transformed into the man of books and the study, and since then I have lived far from the larger concourses of men. My weekly sermon, for twenty years, has been the essence of my weekly toil in establishing the authenticity, first, of the entire second gospel, and second, of the ten doubtful verses in the fifteenth chapter. My work is now accomplished—for all time, I believe.

"From the inception of what I considered my life mission, I made the resolve to bequeath to Agatha Shaw whatever manuscripts or other material of value my work should lead me to accumulate, together with this house, in which I have spent all the later years of my life. You are Agatha Shaw's only child, therefore to me a foster-child.

"Another reason, four years ago, led me to confirm my former testament. From time to time I have informed myself concerning your movements and fortunes. The work you have chosen, my dear Agatha, I can but believe to be fraught with unusual dangers to a young woman. Therefore I hope that this home, modest as it is, may tempt you to an early retirement from the stage, and lead you to a more private and womanly career. This I make only as a request, not as a condition. I bid you farewell, and give you my blessing.

"Faithfully yours,
"HERCULES THAYER."

Agatha Redmond folded the thin sheets carefully. There was a mist in her gaze as she looked off toward the distant city lights.

"Dear old gentleman! His whole love-story, and my mother's too, perhaps! Her quickened memory recalled childish impressions of a visit to a large country house and of a solemn old man—he seemed incredibly ancient to her—and of feeling that in some way she and her mother were in a special relationship to the house. It was called 'the old red house,' and was full of fascinating things. The ancient man had hidden her go about and play as if it were her home, and then had called her to him and laid open a book, leading her mind to regard its mysteries. Greek! It seemed to her as if she had begun it there and then. Later the mother became the teacher. She was nursed, as it were, within sight of the windy plains of Troy and to the sound of Homeric hymns—and all by reason of this ancient scholar.

There was a vivid picture in her mind, gathered at some later visit, of a soft hillside, a small white church standing under its palm-of-gilead tree.

and herself sitting by a stone in the old churchyard, listening to the strains of a hymn which floated out from the high, narrow windows. She remembered how from without she had joined the hymn, singing with all her small might; and suddenly the association brought back to her a more recent event and a more beautiful strain of music. Half in reverie, half in conscious pleasure in the exercise of a facile organ, she began to sing:

"Free of my pain, free of my burden of sorrow,
At last I shall see thee—"

The song floated in a zone of silence that lay above the deep-murmuring city. The voice was no more than the half-voice of a flute, sweet, gentle, beguiling. It told, as many songs tell, of little earthly love in the grasp of mighty Fate. Still she sang on, softly, as if loving the entrancing melody.

Suddenly the song ceased, and the reminiscent smile gave place to an expression of surprise, as the singer became conscious of a deeper shadow falling directly in front of her. She glanced up quickly, and found herself looking into the face of a man whose gimlet-like gaze was directed upon herself.

Quickly she rose, she could not turn into the path before the gentleman, but in hand, with a deep bow and clearly enunciated words, arrested her impulse to flight.

"Pardon, Mademoiselle, I am a stranger in the city. I was directed this way to Van Cortlandt Hall, but I find I am in error, intrigued—in confusion. Would Mademoiselle be so good as to direct me?"

The tones had a foreign accent. There was something, also, in their bland impertinence which put Miss Redmond on her guard. He was a good-sized, blond person, carefully dressed, and at least appeared like a gentleman.

Miss Redmond looked into the smooth, neat countenance, upon which no record either of experience or of thought was engraved, and decided fleetingly that he was lying. She judged him capable of picking up acquaintances on the street, but thought that more originally might be expected of him.

Suddenly she wished that she had returned sooner to her car, for though she was of an adventurous nature, her bravery was not of the physical order; and she disliked to have the appearance of unconventionality. After the first minute she was not so much afraid as annoyed. Her voice became frigid, though her dignity was somewhat damaged; by the fact that she bungled in giving the desired information.

"I think monsieur will find Van Cortlandt Hall in the College grounds two blocks south—no, north—of the gateway yonder, at the upper end of this walk."

"Ah, mademoiselle is but too kind!" He bowed deeply again, hat in hand. "I thank you profoundly. And may I say, also, that this wonderful picture—here he spread eloquent hands toward the half-quietest city whose thousand eyes glimmered over the lower distance—"this panorama of occidental life, makes a peculiar appeal to the imagination?"

The springs of emotion, touched so potently as they had been by the surprising recollections of the last half-hour, were faintly stirred again in Miss Redmond's heart by the stranger's grandiloquent words. Unconsciously her features relaxed, though she did not reply.

"Again I pray mademoiselle to pardon me, but only a moment past I heard the song—the song that might be the sigh of all the daughters of Italy. Ah, Mademoiselle, it is wonderful! But here in this so fresh country, this youthful, bolsterous, too prosperous country, that song is like—like—like Arabian spices in a kitchen. Is it not so?"

Miss Redmond was moving up the steps toward the entrance, hesitating between the desire to snub her interlocutor and to avoid the appearance of fright. The man, meanwhile, moved easily beside her, courteously distant, discourteously insistent in his prattle. But the motor-car was now not far away.

The stranger looked appealingly at her, seemingly sure of a humorous answering look to his pleasantry. It was not wholly denied. She yielded to a touch of amusement with a cool smile, and hastened her steps. The man kept pace without effort. Luckily, the car stood only a few feet away, with Renaud, or rather Hand, at the curb, holding open the door. A vague bow and a lifting of the hat, and apparently the stranger went the other way. She felt a foolish relief, and at the same instant noted with surprise that the cover of her car had been raised.

"Why did you raise the top?"

"It appeared to me, Mademoiselle, that it was likely to rain."

"Put it down again. It will not rain," Miss Redmond was saying, when, from sidelong eyes, she saw that the stranger had not turned in the other direction, after all, but was almost in her tracks, as though he were stalking game. With foot on the step she said sharply, but in a low voice, "To the Plaza quickly!" then immediately added, with a characteristic practical turn: "But don't get yourself arrested for speeding."

"No, Mademoiselle, with this car I can make—"

Even as the chauffeur replied, Miss Redmond's sharpened senses detected a passage of glances between him and the stranger, now close behind her.

She sprang into the tonneau and seized the door, but not before the man had caught at it with a stronger hold, and stepped in close after her. The chauffeur was in his seat, the car was moving slowly, now faster and faster. Suddenly the bland countenance slid very near her own, while firm hands against her shoulders crowded her into the farther corner of the tonneau.

I Will Stake This Medicine Against Your Time

A Few Days Will Be Sufficient to Prove That You Are Curable

A few minutes of your time for a few days and I will demonstrate to you, without expense to yourself, that I have a medicine that drives Uric Acid poison from the system and by so doing cures kidney trouble, bladder trouble and rheumatism. I don't ask you to take my word for it, but simply want you to let me send you some of this medicine so that you can use it personally.

I am trying to convince sufferers from these diseases that I have something far better than the usual run of remedies, treatments and quack things, and the only way I can demonstrate that fact is to go to the expense of compounding the medicine and sending it out free of charge. This I am glad to do for any sufferer who will take the time to write me. Understand, I will not send you a so-called "sample" proof or test treatment, nor will I send you a package of medicine and let you try it for yourself. I will send you a supply free of charge and you will not be asked to pay for this gift nor will you be under any obligations.

All I want to know is that you have a disease for which my medicine is intended, as it is not a "one-all," and I give herewith some of the leading symptoms of kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles. If you notice one or more of these symptoms you need this medicine, and I will be glad to send you some of it if you will send me the numbers of the symptoms you have, give your age and your name and address, my address is Dr. Frank Lynott, 375 Deane Building, Chicago, Ill. You promise me nothing; I ask you nothing for it. All I ask, so there shall be no mistake, is that you send me the numbers of your symptoms or a description in your own words, and that you take the medicine according to the directions I send you. It is my way of getting publicity for my medicine so that it will become widely known.

You will agree when you have used it that it dissolves and drives out uric acid poison. It tones the kidneys so that they work in harmony with the bladder. It strengthens the bladder so that frequent desire to urinate and other urinary disorders are banished. It stops all uratic acids and pains immediately. It dissolves uric acid crystals so that back and muscles no longer ache and are free of pain. It quickly straightens out. It reconstructs the blood and nerves so that you soon feel healthier and more vigorous, sleep better and eat better and have energy throughout the day. It does all this, and yet contains nothing injurious and is absolutely harmless for according to law.

Sufferers from these dreadful and dangerous diseases can surely afford to spend a few minutes each day for a few days to demonstrate to their own satisfaction if they are curable, especially when you consider no expense is involved, and I willingly give you my time and my medicine. All my fair-minded afflicted persons want to know is if a certain thing will cure HIM or HER, and here is an opportunity to find out without cost, obligation or important loss of time. THESE FEW DAYS may be the turning point in your life.

DR. FRANK LYNOTT who will send medicine to anyone free of charge

All who are interested enough to write me for the free medicine will also receive a copy of a large illustrated medical book which describes these diseases thoroughly. It is the largest book of the kind ever written for free distribution, and a new edition is just being printed. I will also write you a letter of diagnosis and medical advice that will help you to help yourself; but in order to do this I must know that you need my medicine. Write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your age, and I will promptly carry out my promises. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

Stop That Cough In A Minute
Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pfening, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and Jiver St.
